

In-House ID Badge Production System from eXpress badging

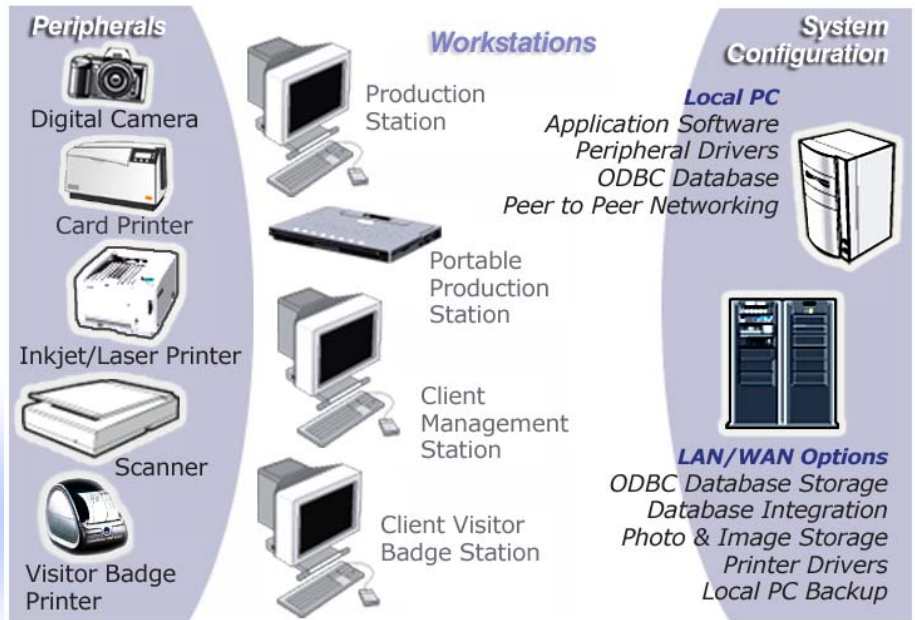

The decision to produce ID badges in-house requires a thorough evaluation of your requirements and understanding of ID badge production technology to ensure the most cost efficient solution is implemented. Whether your ID badge needs require a standalone production system that produce hundreds of badges a year, or an integrated networked system that manages remote locations and produces thousands of badges per year, let eXpress badging become your resident eXpert in the selection, configuration, implementation and support of your next ID badge production system.

eXpress badging will develop an In-House ID badge production system configuration that will maximize software and hardware life cycles, and minimize supply and administrative costs; all while producing ID badges of professional quality that meet all of your identification technology requirements.

System Development Focus:

- Software & data
- Printers & peripherals
- Cards & supplies
- ID badge technology integration
- ID badge design
- Installation & implementation
- Warranties & Support

eXpress badging knows ID software and hardware with over 20 years of experience and represents the industry's best solutions that are based on performance, ease of use, and knowledgeable support staff.

eXpress badging will help determine the type of ID badge that best meets your needs, as there are many options to consider: ID badge design, durability, accessories, security and ID technology integration. eXpress badging guarantees the ID badge you rollout will be a first time success.

ID badges have become the number one high tech tool in system authentication to open doors, manage time and attendance, and conduct financial transactions. eXpress badging will work with you to create a single ID badge environment regarding ID technology integration.

Whether your ID production system needs are basic or have evolved into an electronic authentication resource requiring networking and integrated data management, eXpress badging will become your ID badge solutions partner.

Get started now! Call 800-909-8602 Or visit www.expressbadging.com